Special award for search and rescue hero James

Husband and father James Dunn from Westerham has been presented with a certificate of achievement for attending 50 operational searches for vulnerable missing people. James has been involved with search and rescue since 2006, when he joined Kent Search & Rescue (KSAR). He trained first as a foot searcher but quickly saw the need for local canine resources to assist. So he founded SARD Meridian last year, the first search and rescue dog association dedicated to Kent. His faithful trained search dog Venka has been accompanying him on many searches. Kent Search & Rescue and SARD Meridian are both charities which assist the local authorities in their search for vulnerable missing people. These unsung heroes are all volunteers who give up their free time to answer callouts at any time of the day or night, 365 days a year.

James, who was also turning 30 on the day of his award, received a very special birthday present for his action as he was one of the few people who were presented with a Kent Search & Rescue certificate of achievement by Colonel Peter Bishop. Colonel Bishop is the appointed link Deputy Lieutenant from the Lord Lieutenants Office for KSAR. In order to ensure continuity in the service they provide at no charge to the local authorities, both SARD Meridian and KSAR needs to recruit more members who are willing to give up their free time to join this very rewarding activity. New members with a suitable dog will be trained as dog handlers so their loved pet can also become a wonderful asset to the local community. Other volunteers can be trained as foot searchers or to become part of the newly formed bike team, which assist with searches alongside paths on mountain bikes. For more information, including how to help or to join, visit www.sardmeridian.co.uk and www.ksar.co.uk.
